

Signal Outage

Currently, the traffic signals at the intersection of Huntington Drive and San Marino Avenue are all flashing red. Signal repair has already been notified and is currently working on repairing the problem. They have estimated that the signals will be working properly by approximately 2:00pm.

Stop signs have been placed and until the necessary repairs are completed, this intersection is to be approached as a 4-way stop in accordance with the California Vehicle Code.

Motorists are encouraged to take an alternate route to avoid traffic delays until the signals are returned to their full function.

As always, motorists are advised to follow all traffic laws and drive safely.
