Happy September, San Marino!

It has been nearly six months since the City Council proclaimed a local emergency due to the COVID-19 pandemic. We probably all hoped things would be different than they are now, but we are continuing to adapt to our new normal. The City is also adapting in order to meet the changing needs of our residents and businesses, so I wanted to take this time to give you an update on what the City is going to do to support our community.

Our top priority is to ensure the safety of our residents, businesses, and employees while still providing essential City services. The City’s Executive Team meets frequently to coordinate efforts, update each other on conversations with other agencies, discuss necessary changes or adaptations to our City services and procedures, and proactively plan for the weeks and months ahead. Even though our buildings are currently closed to the public, City staff is still working and most business can be conducted by phone, email, and limited appointments.

The City’s Resident Support Hotline has been up and running since the initial “Safer at Home” order was put in place. Our Hotline staff is here to assist you with essential services, such as picking up groceries or medication, or to provide a face covering if you don’t have one. Please give us a call at 626-300-0731 if there is anything we can help you with!

Our Economic Development team has been working closely with our local businesses to ensure they have the support they need during this time. We’ve provided businesses with special signage and helped them adjust their business models to comply with the changing Health Officer Orders.

Our Community Services Department is continuing to provide great programming to our City. Be sure to take advantage of the Library’s curbside pickup program and all of our virtual and in-person recreation activities.

Even though Los Angeles County has seen an encouraging decline in COVID-19 deaths and hospitalizations recently, this is the time to remain vigilant. As of August 31, there were 75 confirmed COVID-19 cases in San Marino, and we see a handful of new cases in our City each week. Our path forward is dependent on reducing community transmission of the virus, and we all have to do our part to accomplish that goal. I hope we can continue to count on everyone to wear a face covering, maintain physical distancing, wash your hands, and most importantly, avoid gathering with people outside of your household.

Thank you for helping to keep San Marino safe!

A Message from Police Chief John Incontro

I want to begin this message with a word of thanks to the San Marino community who has shown support to the members of the San Marino Police Department. Your words of encouragement, thanks and thoughtful gestures have been greatly appreciated by each and every one of us. The notes, letters, handmade masks, food and in some cases, monetary donations are deeply appreciated.

We strive each and every day to provide you with the best policing possible, to show that we are guardians of this community. Thank you for everything.

The department has placed 22 license plate reader cameras throughout the city. Primarily at strategic points near the perimeter of the city. These cameras have assisted the department to identify vehicles and suspects involved in several crimes. The cameras are focused on roadways, not on private property and are specific to vehicle information. They are proving to be a valuable tool to help us solve crimes that have occurred in the city.

At a recent City Council meeting, I reported larceny crimes, or theft related crimes have increased throughout San Marino. These increases are in three areas, package theft, theft from unlocked and locked vehicles and thefts of gardening equipment.

Package thefts have increased due to the use of online purchasing. As your package is delivered and left by the front door, thieves are using that opportunity to steal packages. The department has been able to make several arrests, but we need your help to reduce this type of crime. If you are able, have the package delivered to a mailbox business, delivered to your business or to a neighbor that can receive the package. The department is working with Amazon to have a package locker installed at a City facility. This locker will provide our residents with a safe and secure location for your deliveries.

Thefts from unlocked and locked vehicles is becoming more common. Leaving valuable items in your vehicle invites a thief to steal those items. Please remember to lock your car secure your valuables in the trunk of your vehicle or take them with you. Remember, LOCK IT, HIDE IT, KEEP IT.

Finally, the gardeners who work so hard to keep your yards so beautiful are often victims of equipment theft. A commercial lawn mower can cost over $1500, a blower over $500 and the other equipment losses make it difficult for them to work. The Police and Community Development Departments are working together to provide information to gardeners to secure their equipment and vehicles. Our officers have also been providing crime prevention flyers to gardeners in the City. One crime prevention tactic you can assist us with is to allow your gardener or contractor to park in your driveway toward the rear of your property, off the street and out of sight. We call this “Safer in Back”, Together we can continue to keep San Marino a safe city and an amazing place to live!
“Be Prepared”

Well, if you don’t know everything you need to about your utilities, with this summer’s recent heat waves and the resultant California ISO Flex Alerts across our State, now is a good chance to revisit this important information. In case you did not know, the California ISO manages the flow of electricity across the high-voltage, long-distance power lines that make up 80 percent of California’s and a small part of Nevada’s electrical grid. This nonprofit public benefit corporation also operates a competitive wholesale energy market, and conducts transmission planning to identify grid expansion needs.

I am almost certain that someone showed you how to do it at one time, but now you’re frantically running around the house and trying to remember. Water! Gas! Electricity! “Where is the shut off valve?!” Let’s quickly review where the valves and switches are located, as well as when, how and if you should turn them off.

This information is intended to serve as a refresher for every homeowner in the event you encounter a problem with your utilities. However, that being said; remember, if any resident ever has a problem with their gas, water, or electricity; don’t hesitate to dial 911. The San Marino Fire Department Firefighters are well trained in utility emergencies, and are here to respond to eliminate hazards or assist residents when they have a problem that is beyond their control.

Electricity
During the heat wave that impacted our City, the Fire Department responded to several arcing transformers and wires, one of which resulted in a house fire. One thing we should never do is underestimate the potential for danger in certain situations. Electrocution and fire are very real hazards that can occur when electrical wires or outlets malfunction or they’re damaged or misused. Sometimes it’s necessary to shut off your electricity under the following circumstances:

When to Shut Off Electric Power
• You smell burning insulation.
• There is a fire or major water leak.
• You suspect a gas leak.
• Arcing or burning occurs in electrical items.
• Switches or plugs become blackened or hot.
• Power loss, accompanied by burning smell.

Turning it Off
Electrical safety should be elementary to every homeowner. Even children should be taught the potential dangers, and adults should know where a home’s electrical panels are located. When you do suspect an electrical problem, here’s what to do.
• Locate the main electric box, normally located in the garage or on the exterior of the home.
• If your home has circuit breakers, open the metal door of the breaker box and turn the electrical switch to “Off.”
• If your house has fuses, there should be a pullout fuse marked “Main.” Remove all the small fuses, and then remove the “Main” fuse.

Water
Water… we love to drink it, swim in it, refresh our lawns and clean our cars with it. But the minute it starts leaking, it’s an entirely different story. Water leaks can cause extensive property damage and create electrical hazards as well. And when a major disaster strikes, leaks can turn into something much bigger, and much costlier. After events such as major earthquakes, it’s smart to temporarily shut off your water supply to protect it from contaminants and from bursting through cracked pipes. Whenever you have to turn off your water, follow these simple steps:

• Find your water shutoff valve, usually located in your garage or outside, next to the side or rear of your house where the water line enters the home.
• The water shutoff is usually a wheel located on a riser pipe. Turn this wheel clockwise to shut it off.
• You can also turn off the water to specific appliances such as dishwashers, refrigerators and even sink faucets. These are usually located on attached lines to the appliances and can be turned off with a clockwise twist of the valve or wheel.

Natural Gas
Natural gas leaks can occur, even without the help of a natural or man-made disaster. When they occur inside a home or other building, they can cause deadly fires and explosions. If you suspect a gas leak, here’s what to do:
• If you smell or hear gas escaping, suspect a leak or discover a broken gas line, shut off the main valve and quickly open all doors and windows.
• The main shutoff valve is located on the gas line leading into your gas meter, normally located on the side yard or backyard of your home, or possibly in an outside closet. This value, about 6 to 8 inches above the ground, runs parallel with the meter pipe.
• With a sturdy wrench, give the valve a ¼ turn in either direction until the valve is crosswise to the pipe.
• Do not attempt to turn the gas back on. Instead contact the Gas Company.
• Never use candles or matches if you suspect a leak, and do not turn on electrical switches or appliances as this can cause an explosion or fire.

Tools of the Trade
Whenever you need to turn off a utility, it often requires more than just your hands and a bit of patience. Here are some items you might want to store in your emergency kit.
• Large crescent wrench
• Pliers
• Cloth rag
• Gloves

If you have a question regarding your utilities, or how to shut them off, please do not hesitate to call the Fire Department at (626) 300-0735.
